Letters

First, I want to say Thank You so much for spending your hard-earned money on these educational worksheets. I really appreciate your business and I love products for you and your kids.

These Letter Practice Pages are designed to make letter formation, letter recognition, and writing practice lots of fun! Children will build letter recognition and writing skills as they trace, color, dab, and count their way through A-Z. Thank you again and enjoy!

Every item in the Table of Contents is clickable:

Letter Formation

It's important that children learn the proper way to write each letter. The first stroke of every letter should start at the top and move downward. If adults show children the correct way to form a letter, it will foster writing that is easy and neat. If children do not learn proper letter formation, they will develop bad habits that are very difficult to break. Side note: I never went over letter formation with my oldest child and now he writes his lowercase "r" and "f" from the bottom up. It is a habit he can't seem to break and the faster he writes, the sloppier his letters look. My advice is to practice letter formation with your children a few times before you have them use the worksheets on their own. Ok, time to have some letter fun!

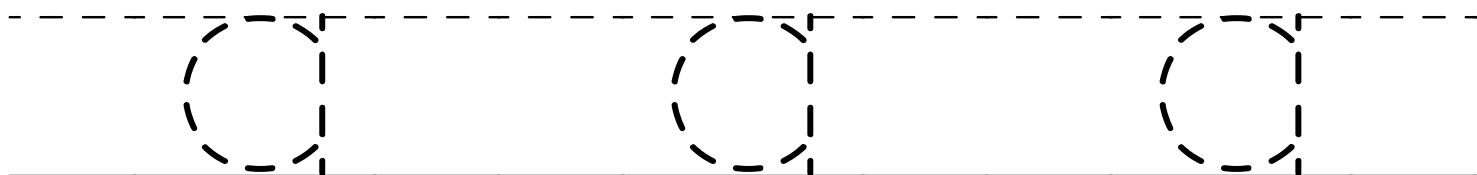

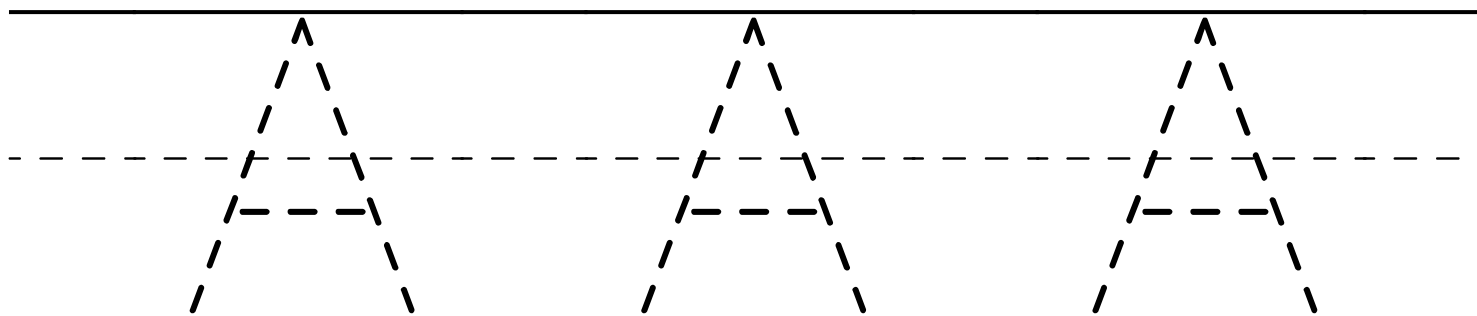

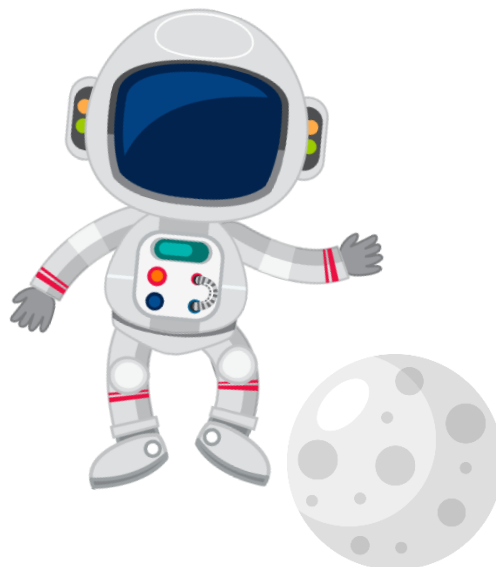

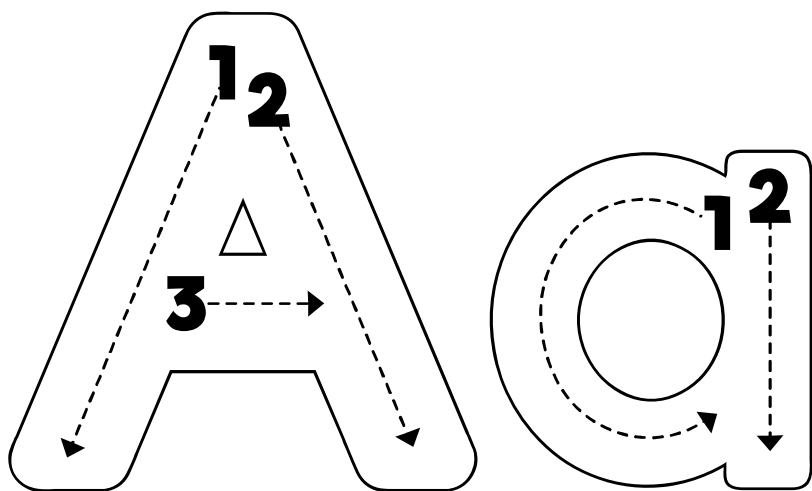

In this section, you will find the following letter formation pages:

Capital and Lower Case Letter Formation

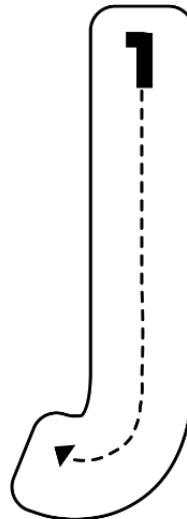

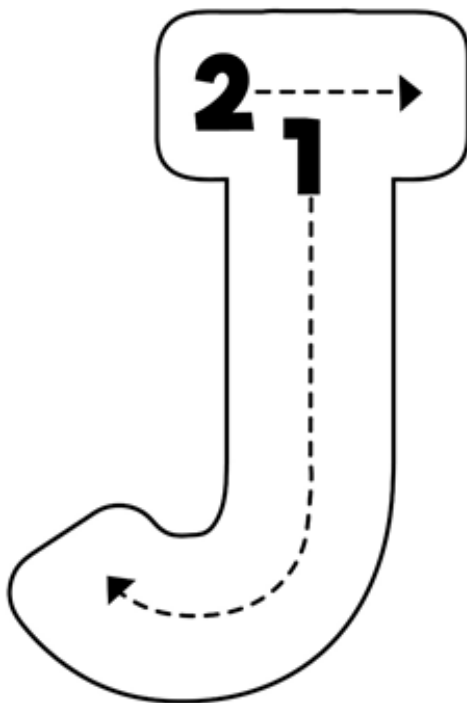

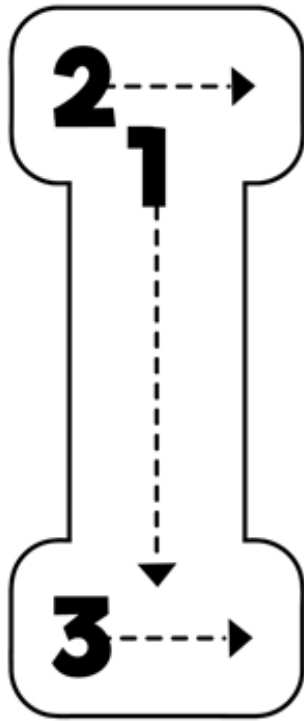

The following pages contain letter formation worksheets. These are half-sheet letters. You can cut them in half and make a practice mini-book or just print each page and review. These pages can also be laminated and used as playdoh mats. Kids will love forming the letters out of playdoh and practicing the proper form (always from top to bottom).

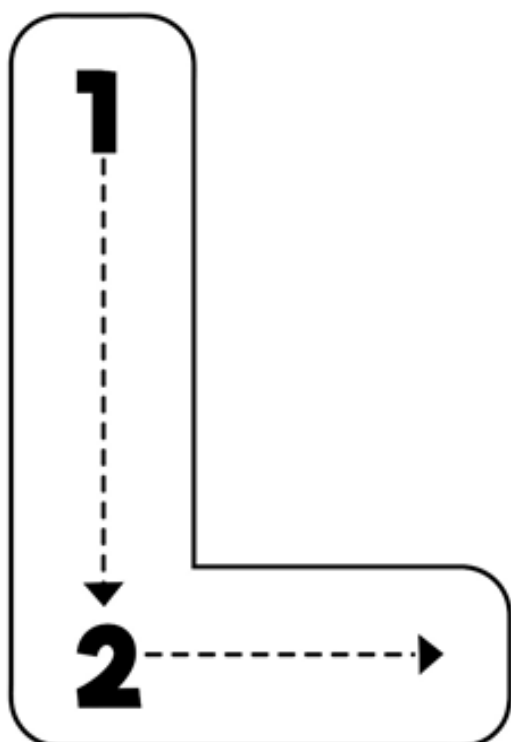

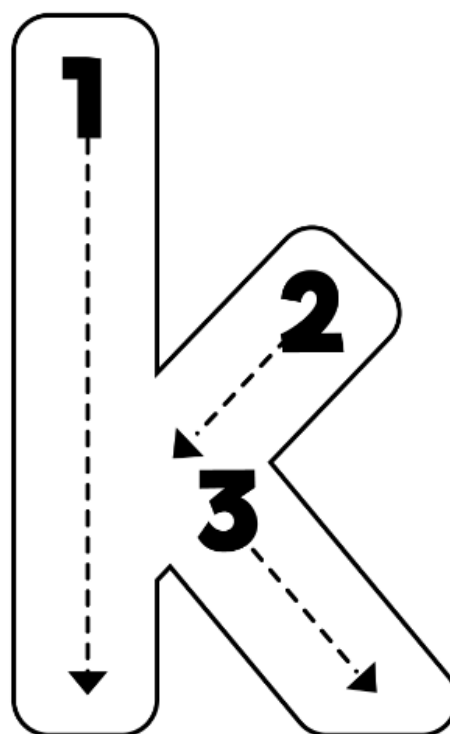

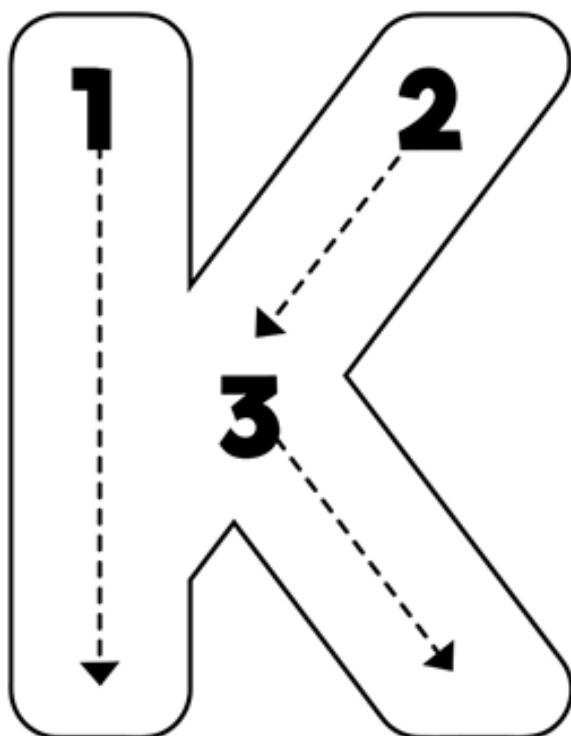

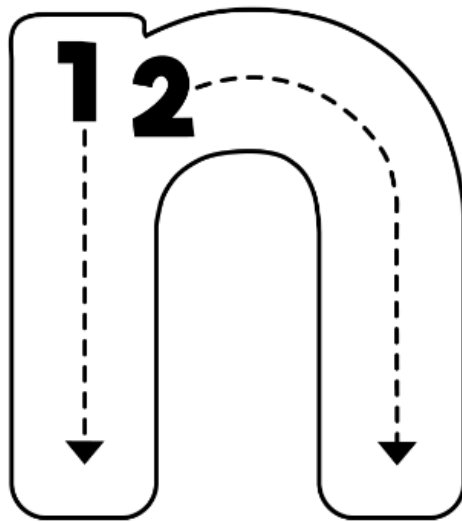

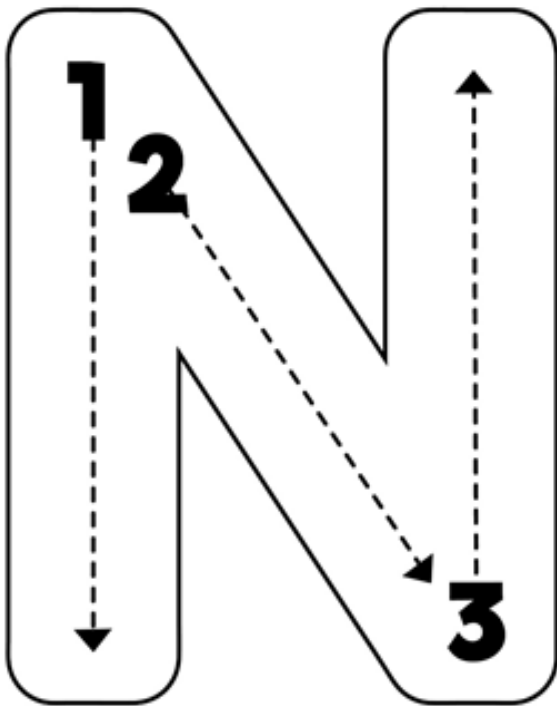

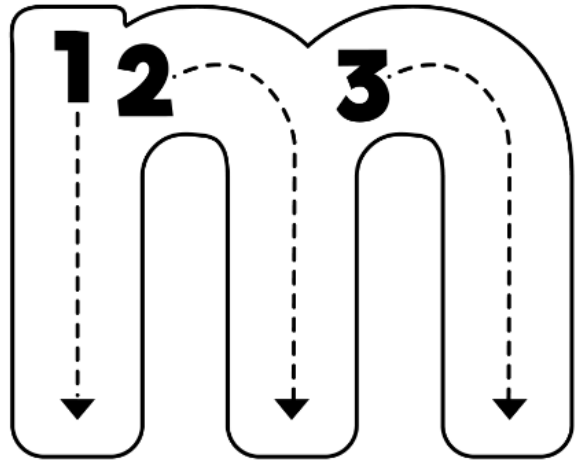

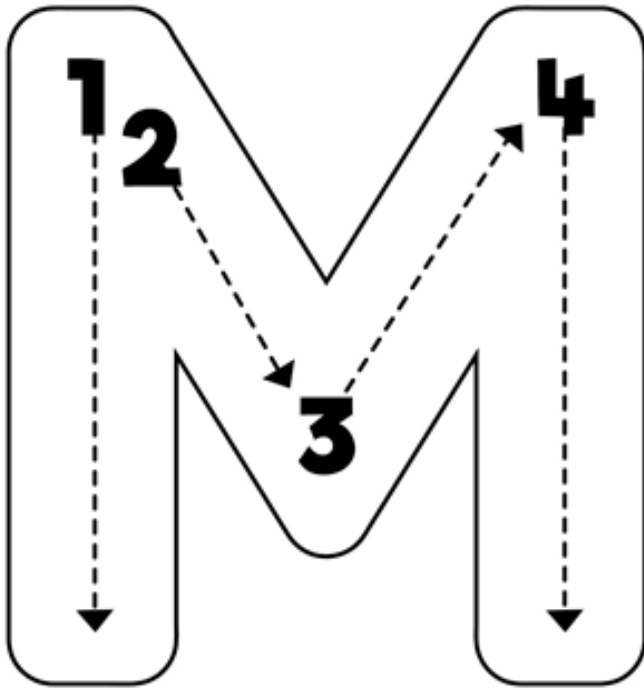

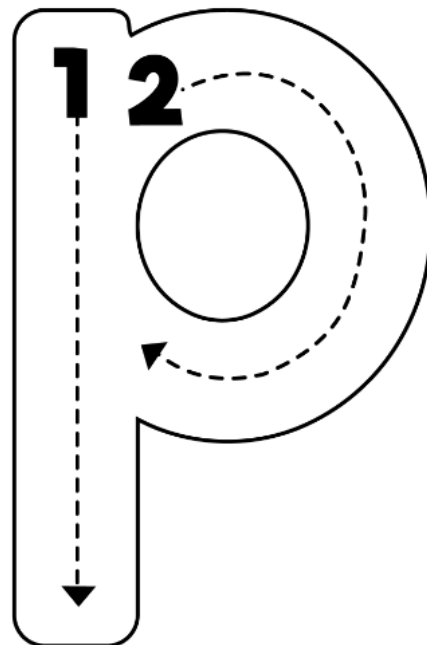

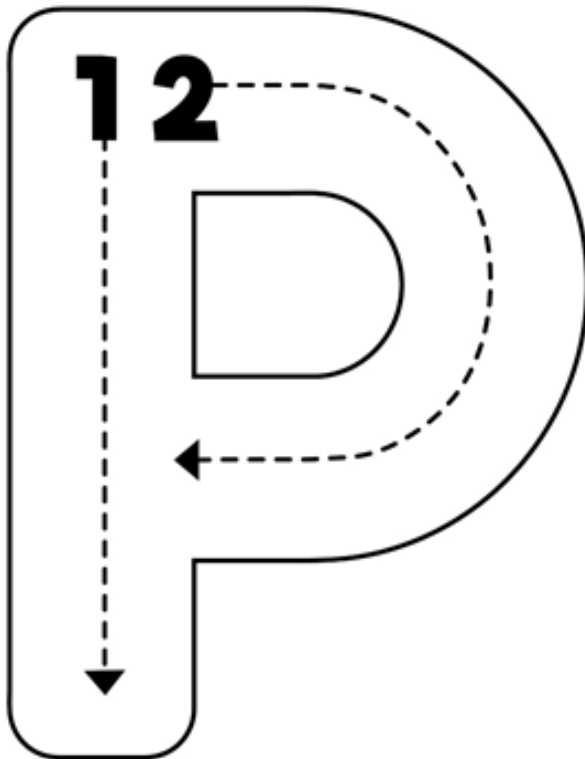

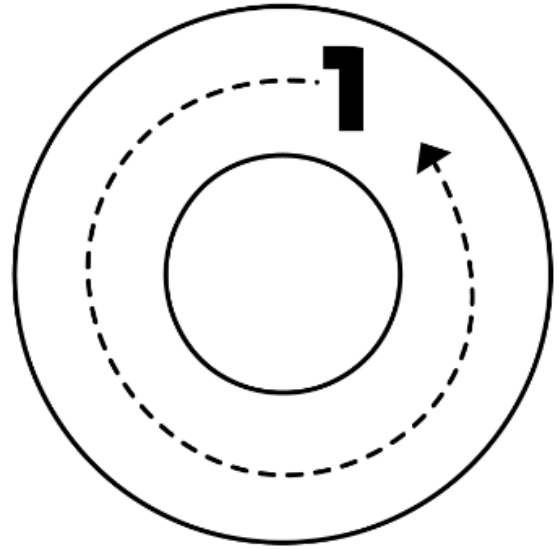

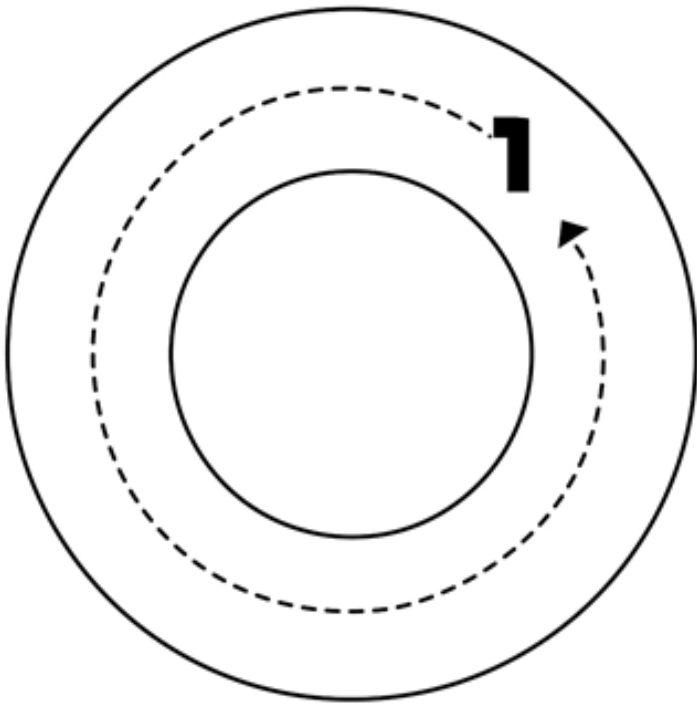

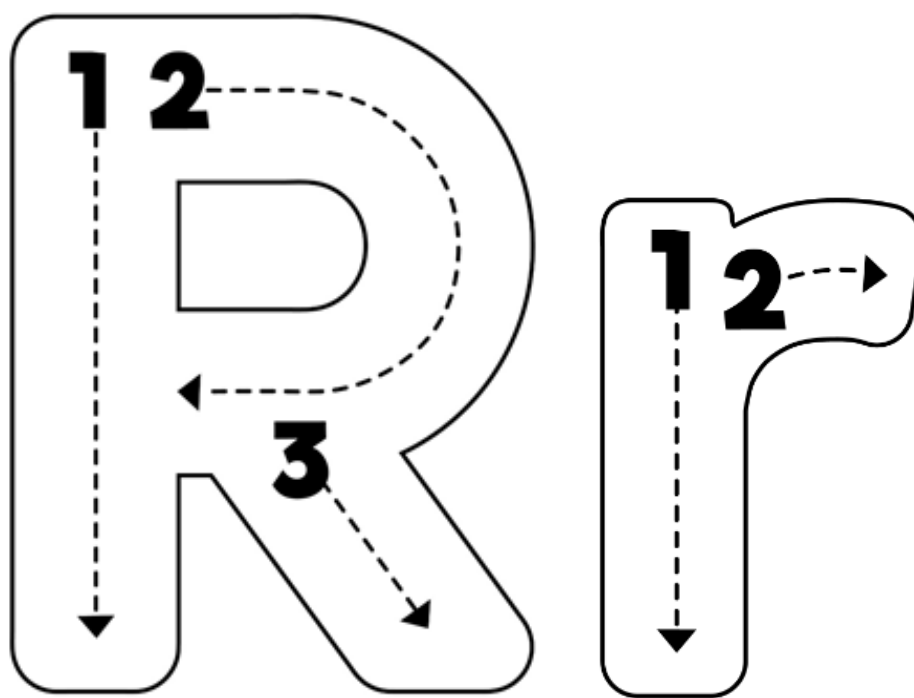

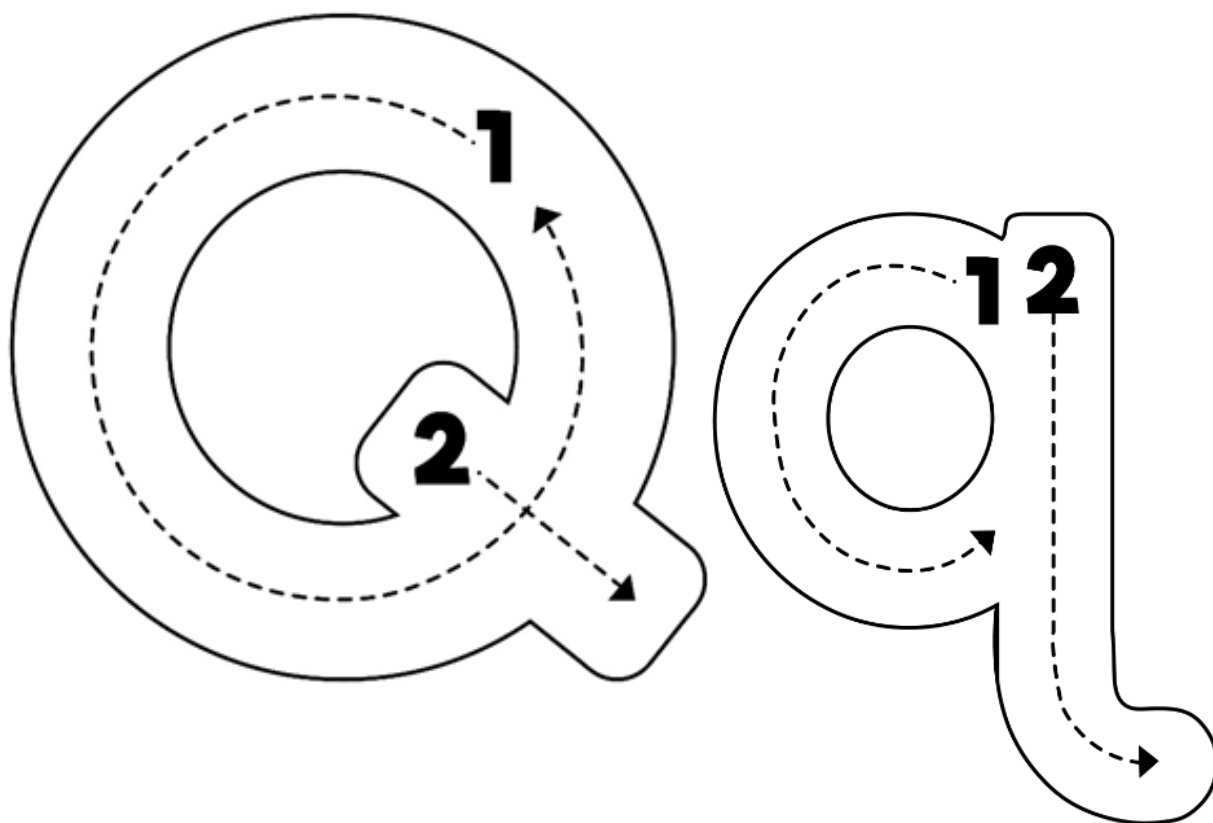

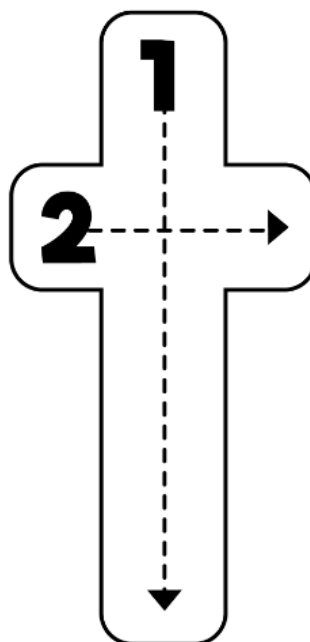

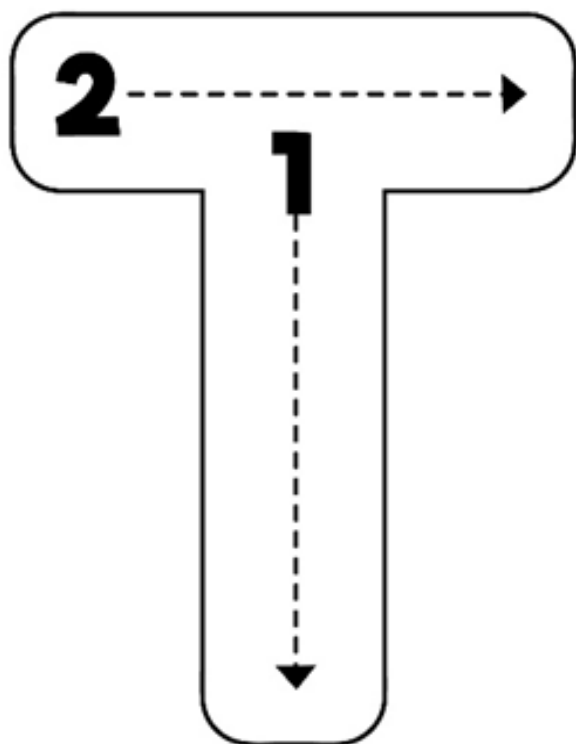

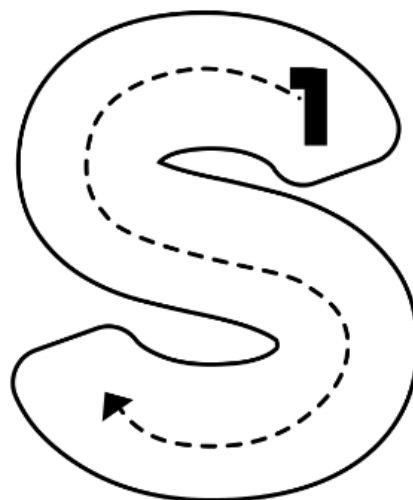

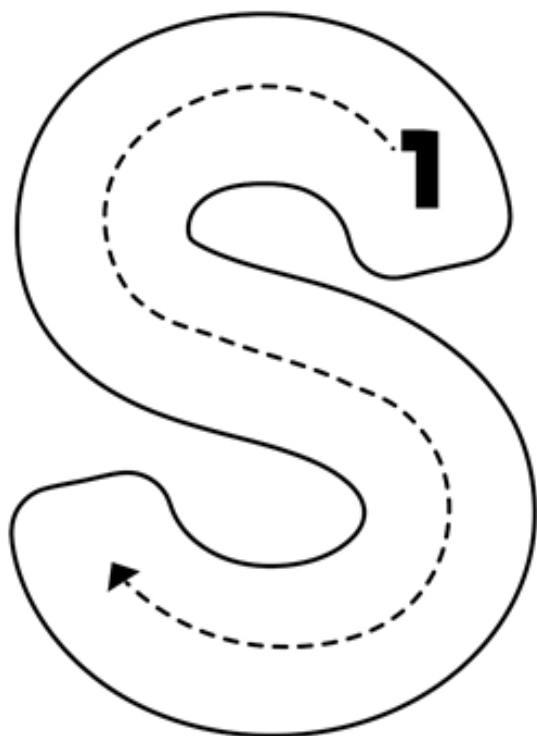

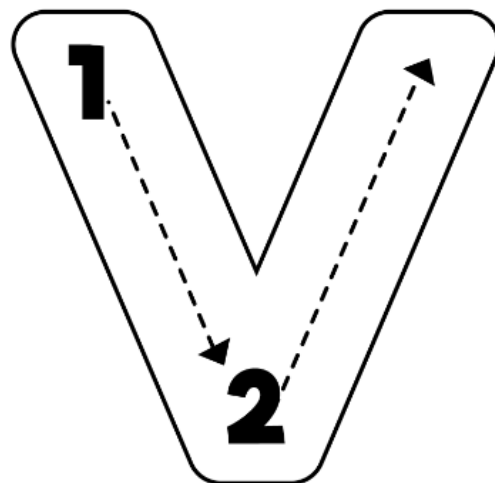

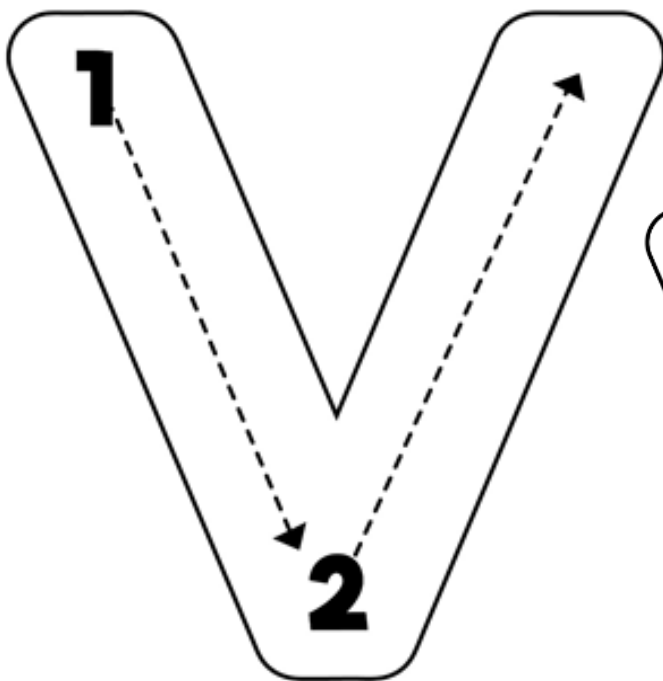

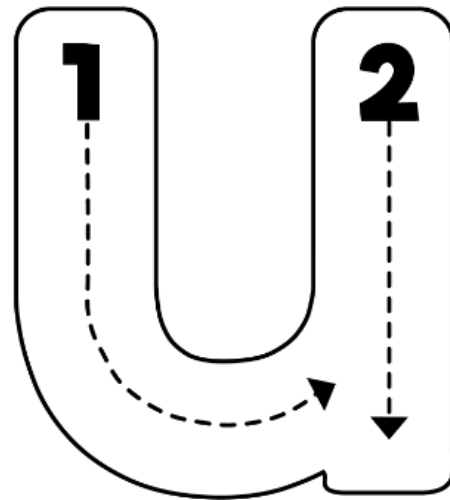

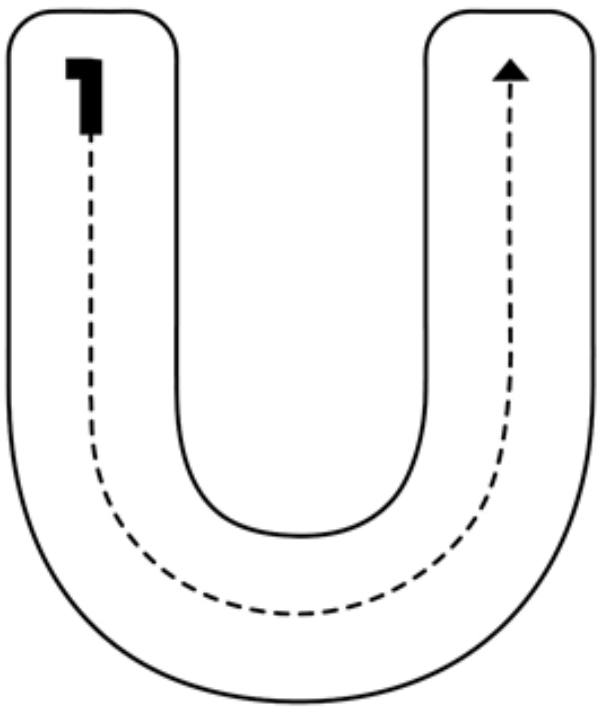

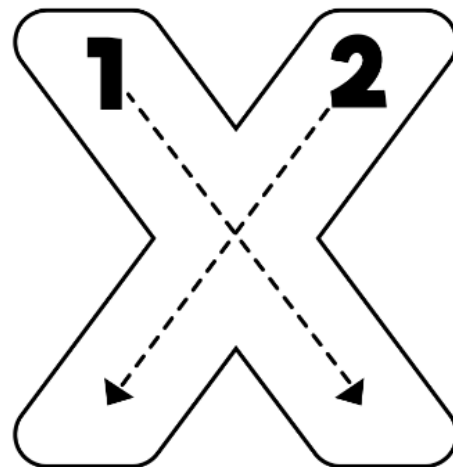

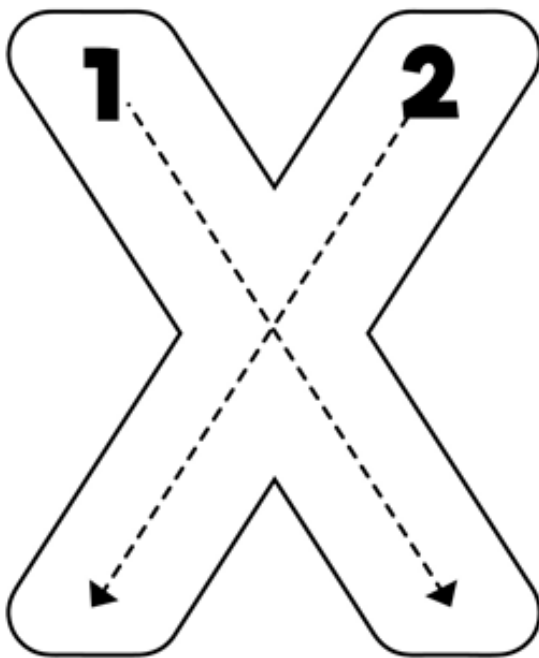

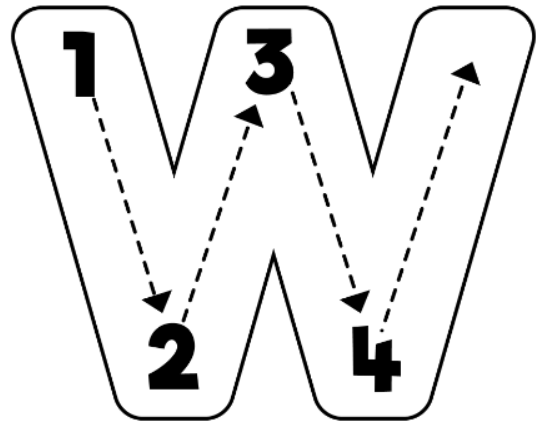

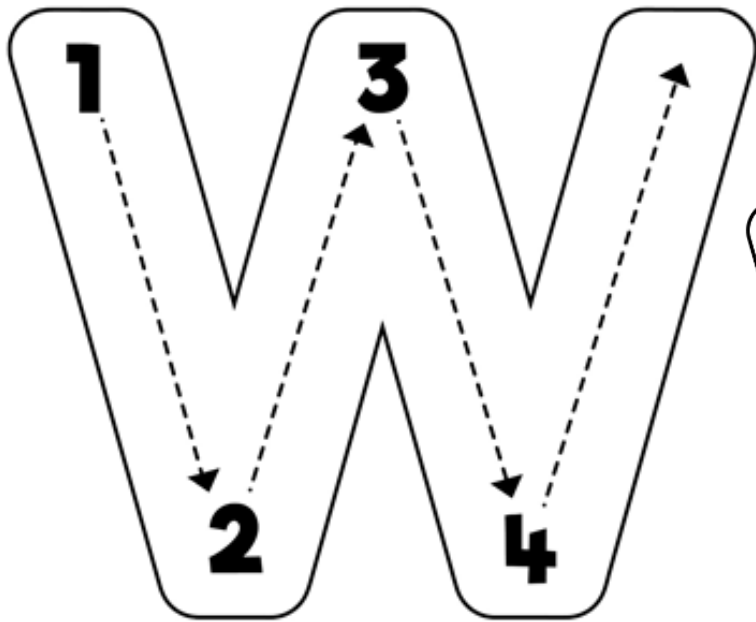

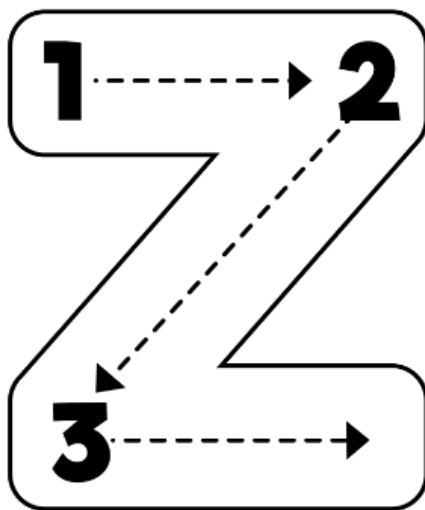

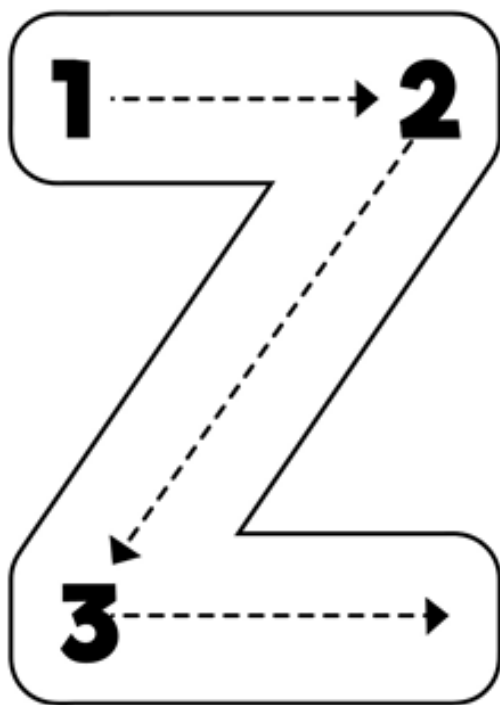

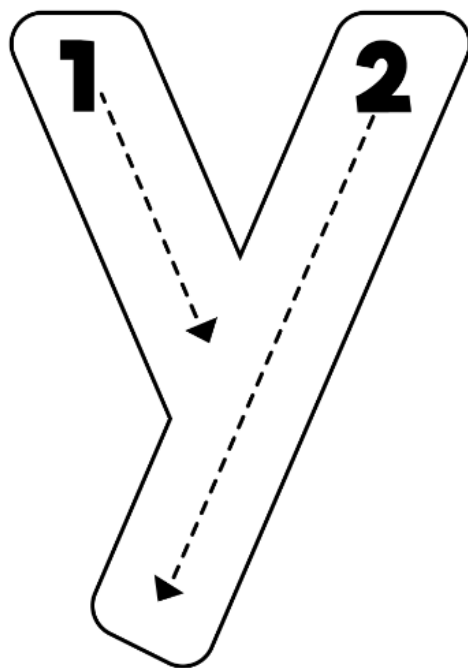

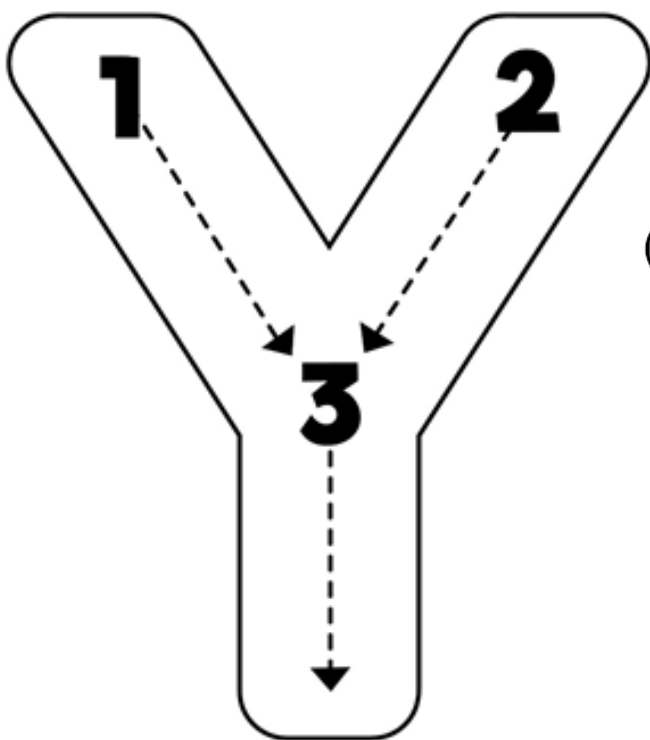

Letter Practice

The following sections contain worksheets for letter practice. They include tracing letters, letter recognition, and basic letter sounds.

Alphabet Letter Dab

My kids love using bingo daubers! That's why I included these pages. These pages are designed for kids to use bingo daubers, crayons, stickers, or anything to cover the correct letter.

The following pages practice these skills for the letters A-Z:

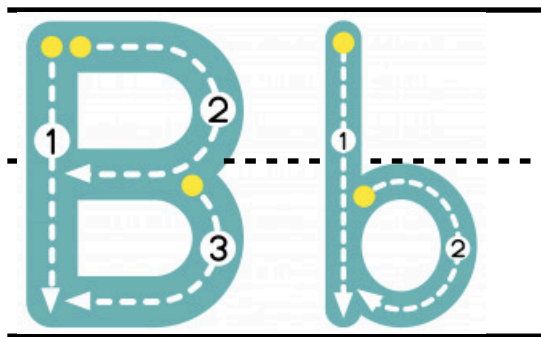

- letter formation
- shows a picture and word that starts with the letter
- letter recognition with dabbing

Letter Outlines

There are so many things to do with these letter outlines. Here are some options:

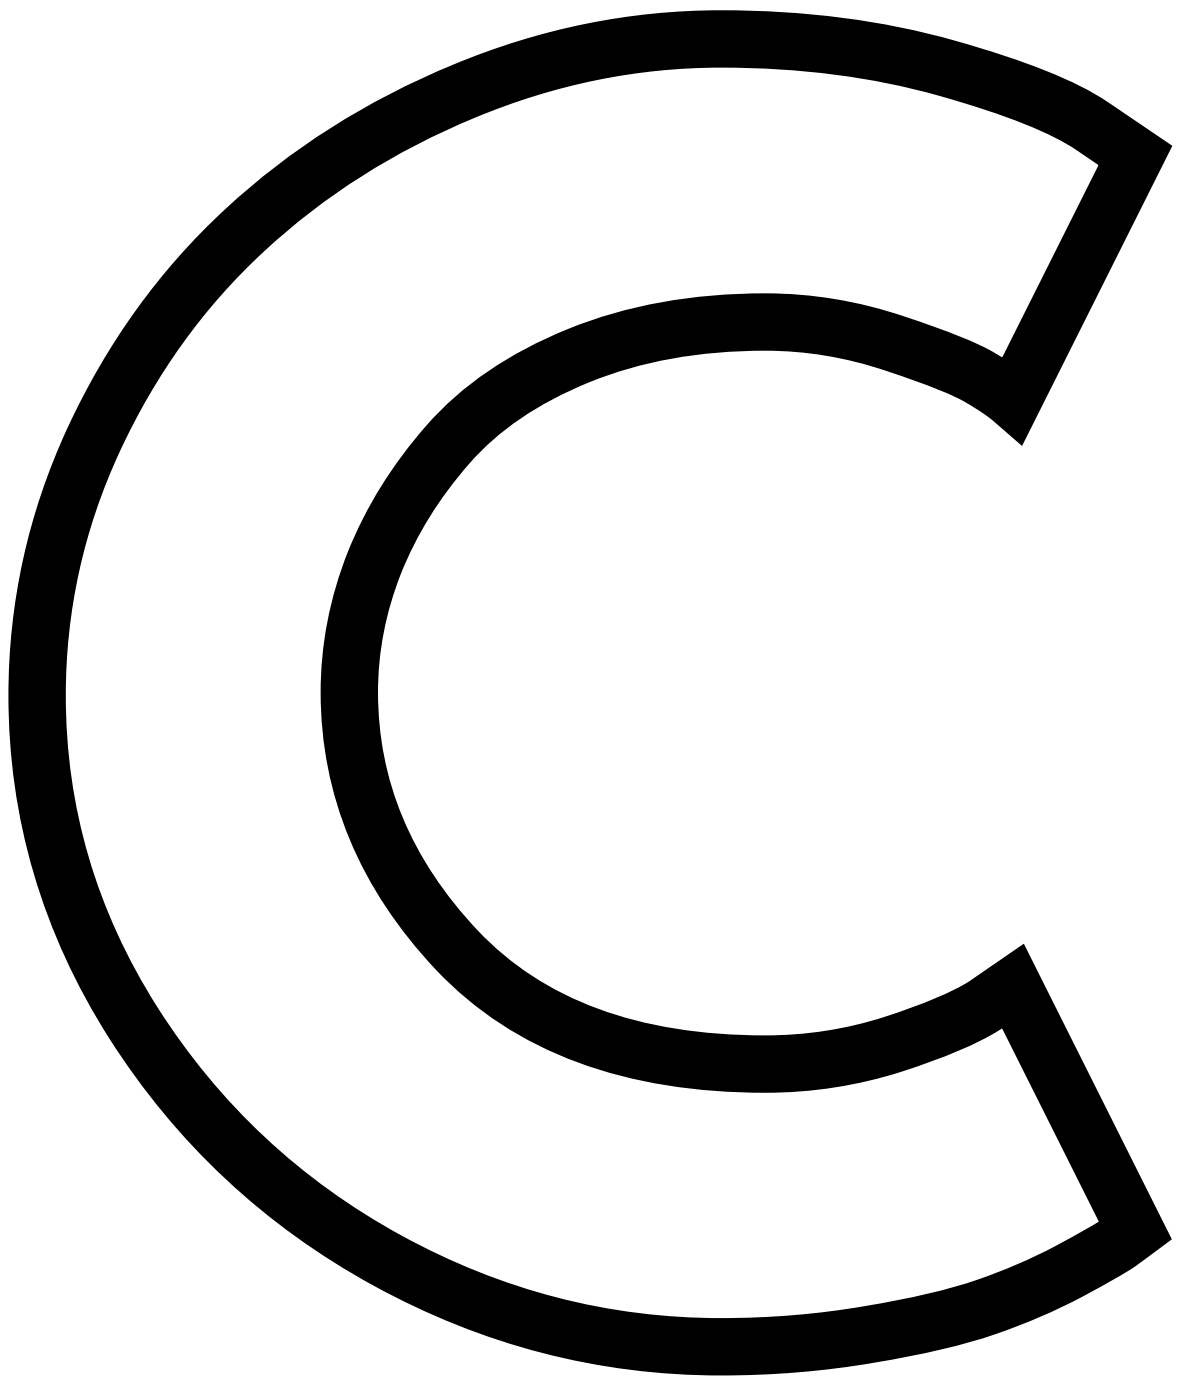

- Print the letter and display it on the wall for the days you will be reviewing that letter.
- Have the child cut out the letter and glue it to a piece of colored construction paper.
- Print out the letter page, then find items in magazines that have the letter's beginning sound. Cut them out and glue them around the letter.
- Print out the letter page, laminate it, and use it as a play-doh mat. Have children form the letters out of playdoh.
- Print out the letter, have the child practice writing the letter by filling in the outlined shape with the corresponding letter - make sure they are forming the letter correctly.
- Print out multiple letters, tape them around the room, have a letter hunt. Have the child search for a certain letter - give them a flashlight for more fun.
- Print out multiple letters; tape the letters in a grid on the wall. Have your child use a dart gun and shoot the letter you call out.
- Print out multiple letters, have your children tape them to the wall to form short words.
- Print out the letters of your child's name, have your child tape them to the wall in order - or cut them out and glue them to a poster board.
